

YANKS PIERCE WEAKENED WEST WALL

LUZON ISLAND
INVADIED AGAIN
BY U. S. TROOPSTRAP SET: COLUMNS
BARE 20 MILES
FROM MANILA

BY C. YATES McDANIEL
General MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Friday, Feb. 2 (AP)—A new landing southwest of Manila—the third invasion of Luzon island—forced the jaws of a trap north and south of the Philippine capital, with some Yank columns reported today a bare 20 air miles away.

Virtually sealing off the possibility of Japanese troops south of Manila joining those to the north, 11th Division troops of the Eighth army landed at Nasugbu on the west coast of Batangas province 32 miles southwest of Cavite naval base.

No Landing Losses
They opened a drive north while Yanks of the Sixth Army pressed south from Calumpit down Bulacan province to the Angat river, the closest approach to Manila. These Yanks have covered approximately 100 miles since their Jan. 9 landing at Lingayen Gulf.

Eighth Army elements which landed Monday northwest of Manila and quickly secured Subic Bay as a base for the Seventh Fleet were reported today to be moving east against light enemy resistance across the base of Bataan peninsula toward a juncture with Sixth army columns driving southwest from Lubao.

MacArthur reported the enemy was "caught off balance and we landed without loss" at Nasugbu. A fine road leads from Nasugbu to Manila by way of Tagaytay ridge through Cavite province.

Resistance Light
This operation places the Eighth army on the south side of Manila, which is now the center of converging columns of the Sixth and Eighth armies. It largely seals off the possibility of the enemy troops south of Manila joining those in the north, and definitely outflanks the enemy's defense lines in southern Luzon.

Meanwhile Sixth Army Yanks moving south upon Manila from captured Calumpit reached a point only 22 miles from Manila as they reached the Angat river in Bulacan province.

Eighth Army troops who landed on the west coast of Zamboanga province just north of Subic Bay on Monday were advancing eastward against only light Japanese resistance in their drive to seal off the Bataan peninsula.

MacArthur announced the hard-hitting First Cavalry Division which distinguished itself on Leyte now was committed to the Luzon campaign.

In the northern sector First Corps forces seized San Nicholas, six miles east of San Manuel on a road, vital to the Japanese, leading into the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon.

Four miles to the south, other units made a four-mile gain toward the eastern foothills.

Corridor Pounded
Heavy bombing of Manila Bay defenses was announced. In successive days heavy bombers dropped more than 152 tons of bombs on Corregidor, the fortress guarding the entrance to the harbor, and the Cavite naval base.

Five enemy planes were destroyed on the ground at Laoag and Tuguegarao airdromes, and a small freighter and eight barges offshore were sunk.

SLOW TIME SET
FOR MARCH 17Irish Will Get An Extra
Hour To Celebrate,
Solons Point Out

Lansing, Feb. 1 (AP)—The House state affairs committee today released an already Senate-approved bill declaring central war (slow) time the only legal time standard in Michigan, effective at midnight March 17.

The committee acted after hearing testimony by Paul B. Valle, deputy director of the power division of the War Production board, that the agency was "frankly worried" because it feared the setting back of Michigan clocks would lead other states to do so, and that this would have an unfavorable effect upon the war effort.

He said if all states abandoned "fast" time schedules, ordered federally as a war measure, electric power plants would have to expand their generating facilities and use enough copper to turn out 2,530,000,000 rounds of .30 calibre ammunition, or enough to provide all the copper parts of 140 destroyers.

Rep. Maurice E. Post, Rockford Republican chairman of the state affairs committee, and Rep. Joseph F. Nagel, Detroit Democrat, said setting of the March 17 effective date was "to give the Irish an extra hour to celebrate St. Patrick's Day." Nagel was reported to have cast the only vote in the committee against releasing the bill.

Senate Blows Horn
On Boss Petrillo
Of AFL Musicians

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—After more than two years, the senate today blew the horn on James C. Petrillo, AFL musicians head, for stopping a high school musical festival broadcast in 1942.

Without a dissenting vote, it passed a bill by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) to outlaw any interference or conspiracy to interfere with broadcasts of non-commercial educational or cultural programs by educational institutions. The measure now goes to the house.

In its report on the measure, the senate interstate commerce committee included a letter from former Chairman James L. Fly of the Federal Communications Commission saying the purpose was to prevent incidents similar to that at Interlochen, Mich.

On that occasion, he said, "a scheduled broadcast over the network of the National Broadcasting Co. by the National High School Symphony Orchestra from the National Music Camp at Interlochen was canceled because of the objection of the American Federation of Musicians that broadcasts by amateur musicians might result in competition with broadcasts by professionals."

A free German national committee broadcast, sponsored by Moscow, said today that Gen. Jonas Block, commander of the Germans' 66th armored corps, was killed with his entire staff on the East Prussian front while fighting as an isolated group.

The general's body was found among the dead after an engagement with about 100 German soldiers, said the broadcast recorded by the FCC.

Rangers Rescue 513
Prisoners Held By
Japs In Philippines

BY C. YATES McDANIEL

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Feb. 1 (AP)—Green-clad United States Rangers and Filipino guerrillas rescued 513 gaunt and ragged men, mostly American survivors of the Bataan "death march" and Corregidor, in a bold raid Tuesday night 25 miles behind Japanese lines.

It was the first mass rescue of prisoners in the Pacific war, carried out by 407 picked fighters of the Sixth Ranger battalion and guerrillas.

Stealthily piercing the Neuvo Ecija province hills, the commando force led by Lt. Col. Henry Muedt, of Bridgeport, Conn., with the Filipino guerrilla unit under Maj. Robert Lapham, of Davenport, Ia., hit the Cabatuan prison camp near Cabu at 7 p. m., their guns blazing.

Guards Wiped Out

The prisoners feared the firing meant their liquidation by the Japanese had started—an end to their nearly three years of cruel custody since the fall of Bataan and Corregidor.

The gaunt and hungry men dodged to the floor, waiting. Then Rangers burst into the barred wire-enclosed barracks with the reassuring words:

"Take it easy fellows, the Yanks are here. We got this place, pals."

Freed were 486 Americans, 23 British, some of whom defended Singapore, three Netherlands and one Norwegian. Two of the men died on the way to safety, their failing hearts unable to withstand the ordeal which climaxed their three years' imprisonment.

They were all that were left at the Sabatan camp, which once held 10,000 captives. Hundreds had died from disease, malnutrition or mistreatment. Others had been removed to work camps in Japan.

Cleanup of the Japanese guards proceeded briskly, the 121 Rangers and 286 Filipinos moving with deadly precision.

With no time to lose, the rescuers and rescued started their night forced march back to American lines. Some of the prisoners walked despite tropical ulcers, wounds and bodily weakness. Others were carried on the backs of Rangers. Some rode in carabao carts.

Too Good To Be True

The Japanese struck the column in persistent, tank-led attacks, but the Americans and Filipinos were not to be denied their prizes.

Fighting on the way back took 523 Japanese lives, better than one for every rescued man, and cost the enemy 12 tanks.

The daring operation cost the lives of 27 Americans and Filipinos. Two more were wounded.

"No incident of the campaign has given me such personal satisfaction," Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communique announcing the rescue.

To emphasize his satisfaction, he awarded decorations to every member of the commando party.

Cheering doughboys of the American liberation army lined the roadway as the prisoners were driven in trucks and ambulances to an evacuation hospital for food and new clothing.

Some of the prisoners appeared dazed, unable to realize their good fortune, their return to friendly hands.

BIG SINGAPORE
DRYDOCK SUNKSuperforts From Indian
Base Batter Nippon
Naval Base

20th Bomber Command Headquarters, India, Feb. 1 (AP)—Superfortresses sunk the gigantic floating drydock and bombed naval base installations in Singapore harbor today in one of the greatest air attacks in strength ever flown by B-29 aircraft.

Numerous returning crews reported seeing bomb explosions solidly aboard the 855-ft. drydock which is capable of serving the largest war craft afloat. Its 172-foot width gives it capacity to handle 50,000-ton vessels.

Installations bordering Georgetown harbor on Penang Island also were hit and set ablaze by a sizeable diversionary force. Pilots returning from Singapore who flew over Penang said flames covered the Georgetown waterfront area. Penang is one of the most important Japanese submarine bases and supply ports in the Asiatic theatre.

The B-29s today hit Singapore for the third time. The first mission on November 6 smashed the gates of another naval drydock. The round trip to Singapore is roughly 3,800 miles from the Superforts' India base.

Belgium No Longer

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Belgium was removed from the class of "enemy territory" by the treasury today, effective Saturday, and business communications were restored with that country.

At the same time postal service between this country and Belgium was resumed on a "closed letter" basis. Hereafter only open post cards could be sent.

Something Is Screwy
Along Western Front

BY WES GALLAGHER

With the U. S. Ninth Army in Germany, Feb. 1 (AP)—There is something screwy on the western front.

There are large sections of the front where the Germans have suddenly fled. Allied patrols have failed to contact the enemy, which means there is considerable territory unoccupied by the Allies or Germans in a situation that parallels the "sitdown" war of 1939.

For the past three days there has been no German artillery fire along a line from St. Vith to Monschau forest, something virtually without precedent since the Allies first reached the westwall.

In comparatively small and not too violent local actions, considerable numbers of Germans are giving up.

In the Ardennes area, U. S. troops of the 82nd airborne division moved right up to the Siegfried line, finding road blocks and temporary defenses unmanned.

In the last 10 days the 102nd

REDS MASSES
FOR CROSSING
OF THE ODERBERLIN IN PANIC;
BOOM OF SOVIET GUNS HEARD

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Russian troops toppled the northern Polish stronghold of Torun and encircled the German Pomeranian bastion of Schneidemuhl today as Berlin said that other Soviet forces had reached the ice-packed Oder river 30 to 40 miles northeast of the German capital.

Officially, Moscow placed the nearest Russian troops 59 miles northeast of panic-ridden Berlin with the capture of Durninghof, 18 miles from Kustrin, one of the last strongholds barring the way to the Reich capital.

Pincers Move Begun

German broadcasts, however, said the Russians had broken through to the Oder northwest of Kustrin, 40 miles from Berlin, and had fought their way into the edge of Kustrin, only to be hurled out by strong Nazi reinforcements hurried from central Germany, the Baltic port of Stettin and the western front.

In a new crossing into Germany from Poland west of Leszno the Russians penetrated to within six miles of Glogau, stronghold on the middle Oder river 117 miles southeast of Berlin.

The Russians farther downstream smashed to within 10 miles of Crossen, 68 miles southeast of Berlin, and in this area and near Kustrin apparently were preparing to cross the Oder in a big pincer movement on the capital, by-passing Frankfurt and Kustrin.

During the day the Russians captured 150 more localities in the advance on Berlin, and far to the northwest toppled Ratzeburg, 26 miles north of encircled Schneidemuhl and only 58 miles from the Baltic. This latter drive was aimed at cutting off another big segment of German forces between those trapped in East Prussia and the Stettin area north of Berlin.

Ice Dynamited

The threat to Berlin was so acute that Nazi broadcasts already said that the battle for the capital had begun; Soviet gunfire was reported audible in Berlin, and Soviet planes were raking German troop movements east of the capital.

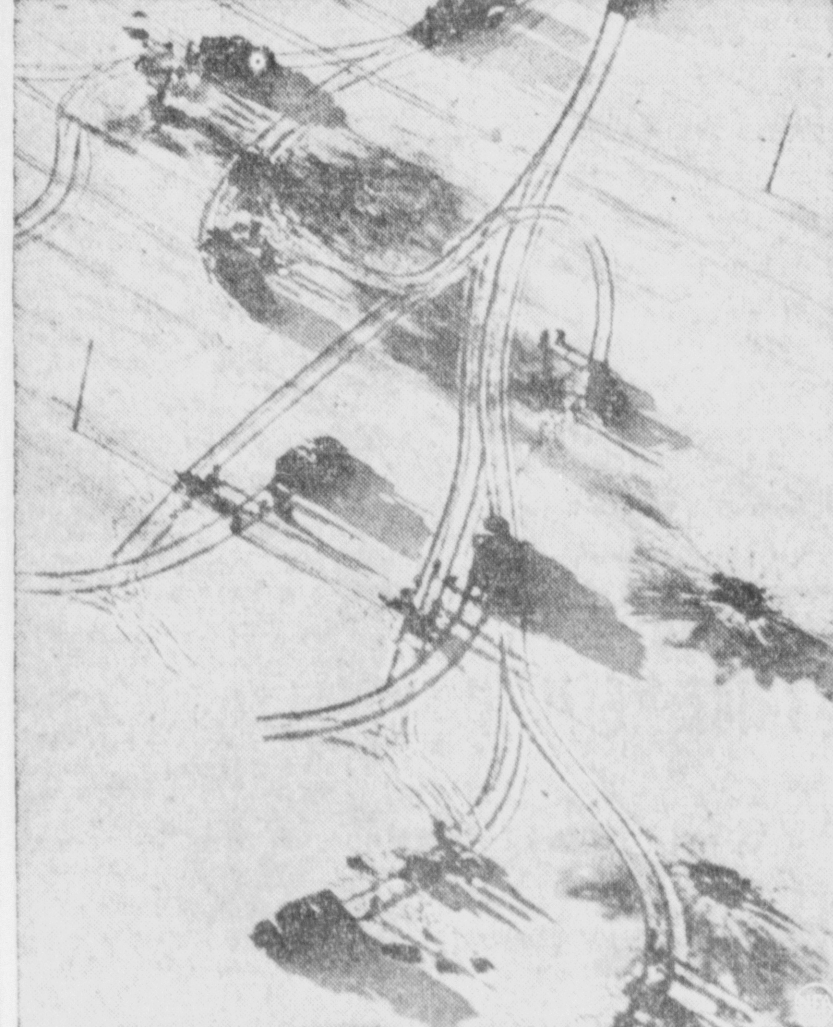

The Germans were reported shelling the Oder river and also dynamiting it in an attempt to break up the ice sheets which might aid a Russian crossing.

Torun, big Vistula river port city of 63,000, fell after a six-day siege begun last Saturday when the Russians encircled the Nazi stronghold. It is 80 miles north-east of surrounded Poznan, last big Polish city in German hands and another island of resistance far behind the Soviet lines fighting toward Berlin.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army captured Torun, and its full released powerful forces to aid in the sweep toward Danzig, 90 miles to the north, and northwest across the Polish corridor into German Pomerania.

Fitzsimmons Convicted Of Bribery Attempt In
Lansing, Gets 3-4 Years

BY ROBERTA APPLEGATE

Mason, Mich., Feb. 1 (AP)—A circuit court jury of nine women and three men today convicted Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor lobbyist and former sports promoter, of attempting to bribe a legislator, and Special Judge John Simpson immediately sentenced him to three to four years in prison.

Fitzsimmons was released on a $4,000 surety bond pending an appeal for a new trial which his attorneys, Charles E. Gore of Benton Harbor and Fred R. Walker of Detroit, said would be filed immediately.

The jury deliberated for an hour and a half before reaching the verdict, which came at the end of the fourth day of the trial.

The lobbyist was charged in a grand jury warrant with offering former Rep. Gail Handy, Eau Claire Republican, $500 in 1941 to

HOUSE PASSES
MANPOWER ACTChanges Brushed Aside
In Work-Or-Fight Bill
For Men 18-45

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Brushing aside every proposed amendment, the house passed and sent to the senate today legislation to coerce men between 18 and 45 into war plants.

The roll call vote was 246 to 165.

Passage of the measure requested by President Roosevelt came only after its backers staved off a mighty drive by opponents to substitute a voluntary plan for meeting manpower needs.

The substitute, backed heavily by Republicans, went down by a non-record vote of 187 to 177. Earlier, the house decisively rejected moves to incorporate in the legislation a so-called "anti-closed shop" amendment and a ban against giving essential rating to an employer unwilling to hire a worker because of his race, color or creed.

Also defeated, on a standing vote of 205 to 71 shortly before the final ballot, was a proposal by Representative Voorhis (D-Calif.) to handle the problem by giving the War Manpower Commission authority to impose labor ceilings on employers and to provide for renegotiation of war contracts by employers using labor obtained through the WMC program.

Enemy Pulling Out

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Indications that the Germans were withdrawing from the peninsula area of northern Italy were reported tonight in a London daily telegraph dispatch from Berne.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, German commander in Italy, probably intends to hold the approaches to the Brenner gateway into Germany, the report declared.

REICH FORCESAMERICANS DEEPEN THEIR GAINS ON GERMAN SOIL

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Paris, Feb. 1. (AP)—U. S. troops drove as deep as two and a half miles today through hitherto unbreached ramparts of the west-wall south of Aachen against resistance so light the belief grew that the Germans had weakened the Reich's great western fortifications to bolster the eastern front.

The full weight of the assault by the U. S. First and Third armies was crunched through dragon teeth traps and pillboxes on a 40-mile front, widening the breaches in the Siegfried line against as astounding lack of resistance.

No Tanks Sighted

Some First army forces in the forefront of the assault found the Germans had fled from roadblocks and pillboxes, abandoning main positions with guns and ammunition.

The Third army, closing to within seven and a half miles of Prum after seizing Winterscher, swept three and a half miles into Germany without sighting a tank. Prum is the big road and railway center which supplies the Siegfried network facing southern Belgium and northern Luxembourg.

Ahead of them, hundreds of Allied heavy bombers battered rail yards and bridges in the Ruhr and Rhineland, attempting to paralyze German troop movement from the western to the eastern front.

Far to the south, the battle to drive the Germans from Alsace gathered momentum. French and American forces virtually wiped out the Rhinebank salient south of Strasbourg and tightened the ring around Colmar—last big French town in German hands—by severing its main railway line to the Rhine.

Evacuation Is Mystery

An Associated Press dispatch from the presently-quiet U. S. Ninth army front on the Roer north of Aachen said that there was something "screwy" on the western front—that whole sections had been abandoned by the Germans and not yet occupied by the Allies.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army, storming the Siegfried line in at least three sectors, met little resistance at some points and heavy at others as it developed its assault along a line from the area of Monschau, 15 miles southeast of Aachen, southward to 20 miles to the front near St. Vith.

The Ninth infantry division moved two and a half miles through the Siegfried line before it ran into heavy machinegun and rifle fire at a crossroads nine miles southeast of Monschau.

Modest River Crossed

The 82nd airborne division sent patrols into the edge of the German town of Losheib, inside the Siegfried line 13 miles northeast of St. Vith, after capturing a dozen 88-mm. German guns complete with firing data, sights and ammunition.

The 78th infantry division, northern spearhead of the First army, capturing two villages three and four miles northeast of Monschau, struck its first heavy opposition east of Kesternich.

The U. S. Seventh army of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch in northern Alsace forced a crossing of the Moselle River 13 miles north of Strasbourg and ran into resistance of German armor backing dug-in infantry at Oberhoffen.

The French First army to the south virtually severed the Colmar pocket from the northern salient which once menaced Strasbourg from the south.

STEAM PLANT STUDY PLANNED

City Council Considers Increasing Capacity With New Boiler

The Escanaba city council in meeting last night authorized Acting City Manager A. V. Aronson to contact consulting engineers and determine the cost of hiring consultants to plan a lay-out of the city steam plant which will increase its capacity.

In a report submitted to the council, Aronson said that the total present steam plant capacity is 39,600 pounds of steam per hour, which is produced by one large and two small boilers.

While the maximum steady load up to Jan. 31 has been approximately 22,000 pounds per hour, there is need of an additional large boiler to meet anticipated demands for service, and to provide a safe standby in the event mechanical trouble should occur. Cost of an additional boiler installation was estimated by Aronson to be $40,000.

Other business before the council last night included: Authorizing the purchase of $9,000 insurance coverage on the buildings at the Steele - Wallace property recently purchased by the city, and authorization of $4,000 insurance on city equipment stored there.

Delayed action on the leasing of property from the Chicago & North Western Railroad, where the Solar Manufacturing company plant is located, until a report is made by City Attorney Denis McGinn at the next meeting.

Discussed a proposed parking lot plan to utilize an area at the rear of the city hall.

Endorsed a resolution submitted by the Norway-Vulcan Chamber of Commerce requesting the state conservation department increase its geology staff to intensify its exploration for ore deposits in the Upper Peninsula.

Received and filed an application by J. Theodore Bloomquist of Hacksack, N. J., for the position of Escanaba city manager.

Scheduled action at the next meeting, Feb. 15, on the application of Lieberman's Milk Plant, for permission to enlarge its facilities at 304 South Sixteenth street.

DETROIT EDISON STRIKE HELD UP

Early Hearing Assured Employees Before Regional WLB

Detroit, Feb. 1 (AP)—Production employees of the Detroit Edison company, whose vote has authorized a strike that would cripple war production and affect householders in 13 southeastern Michigan counties, were assured today of an early hearing—possibly next week—of their grievances before the regional War Labor Board.

The national WLB said in a telegram to Martin O'Dell, president of Local 223, United Workers Organizing Committee (UWO), that all parties involved have been instructed to file briefs before Feb. 9.

The telegram asserted, however, that in view of waivers by both the company and the union it was possible that a hearing could be held early next week.

The generating plant employees, voting in an election conducted under the War Labor Disputes Act, favored a strike, said a statement would be issued later, but indicated they would await further efforts at settlement by federal conciliators.

The dispute involves more than a score of issues developing in negotiations for a new contract that expired last year.

Recreation Official Visits In Escanaba

George A. Nesbitt, New York City, field representative of the National Recreation Association, was in Escanaba yesterday and conferred with A. V. Aronson, acting city manager.

Escanaba still has a vacancy in the director of its recreation department, and has been unable to fill it with a trained man, Aronson said.

Nesbitt informed Aronson that should qualified applicants become known to him he will direct their attention to the vacancy in Escanaba. In Lower Michigan former Escanaba city manager George E. Bean, now at Pontiac, also is assisting in efforts to find a recreation director.

Submarine Growler Is Reported Lost

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The submarine Growler is overdue from patrol and is presumed lost. The Navy announced today that the 1,525-ton vessel, commanded by Com. Thomas B. Oakley, Jr., was the vessel which Com. Howard W. Gilmore sacrificed his own life to save in one of the most dramatic actions of the war.

The normal complement of a vessel of the type is about 65 officers and men.

Com. Oakley's next of kin is his wife, who lives at 419 South Kingsley drive, Los Angeles, Calif.

The Growler is the 36th submarine lost from all causes during the war, including four sunk, 30 overdue and presumed lost and two destroyed to prevent capture.

Com. Gilmore was awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously for his heroism on the famous occasion when he shouted "take her down" while he lay wounded on deck and his ship and crew were endangered.

Veteran Convicted Of Strangling Girl In Washington Park

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—A jury of 11 men and one woman today convicted Marine Pfc Earl McFarland, Guadalcanal veteran, of first degree murder in the rape slaying of 18-year old Dorothy Berrum, a government clerk.

The jury deliberated one hour and 15 minutes in Federal district court after four days testimony.

The marine, who contended he was innocent, heard the verdict with the same lack of emotion that has characterized his demeanor throughout the trial.

The conviction carried with it the death penalty.

The body of Miss Berrum, who came to Washington from Chippewa Falls, Wis., was found on a public golf course last October 6. She had been raped and strangled with her snood.

Discovery of a marine belt near the body led to the arrest of McFarland, a native of Tennessee on duty at the marine barracks here.

Despite adverse weather, the tactical air force roamed over the Po Valley and the Brenner Pass areas, concentrating on German lines of communications and supply bases.

Lansing, Feb. 1 (AP)—Estimating sales tax revenues for December at $10,250,000, the department of revenue said today it was the largest monthly collection in Michigan's history.

Burden Of Fighting In Italy Carried By Allied Patrols

Rome, Feb. 1 (AP)—Daring Allied patrols, moving through some of the most difficult fighting country in Europe, again carried the burden of war in Italy today as both sides prodded ceaselessly at long dormant lines all along the front.

At one point east of Monte Rondinale, a 6,200-foot peak line miles east of Castelnuovo, an American patrol was engaged in a bitter fight, but returned with six German prisoners after inflicting a number of casualties. Not an American was lost.

Another Fifth Army patrol north of Canovetta in the mountain line before Bologna fought for an hour with the Germans, who were using heavy machinegun, rifle and mortar fire as well as hand grenades.

Despite adverse weather, the tactical air force roamed over the Po Valley and the Brenner Pass areas, concentrating on German lines of communications and supply bases.

Iron Mountain—An urgent plea to the state conservation department for increased appropriation to the state geological survey, in its effort to uncover new high-grade ore properties in this area, is incorporated in a resolution adopted this week by the Norway-Vulcan chamber of commerce, according to Carrol Asp, secretary.

BROWNOUT LAGS

Detroit, Feb. 1 (AP)—The war production board, whose staff of investigators conducted tonight an intensive check of "brownout" regulations, said in small Michigan communities compliance was lagging, primarily because of misunderstanding of regulations. The WPB estimated compliance in Detroit at 98 per cent.

LUZON ISLAND INVADED AGAIN BY U.S. TROOPS

was pounded by patrol bombers. Takao and Kagai airfields on Formosa were bombed by long-range patrol planes which caused large fires.

Six Japanese planes were destroyed and two others probably shot down in daylight raids on Formosa. Another enemy aircraft was shot down in the Sakishima island to the east.

Enemy shipping south of Formosa was attacked. Direct hits were scored on a 10,000-ton tanker which blazed for a half hour. A small freighter also was damaged.

WALLACE CAN'T HAVE RFC POST

Chances For Approval Of Cabinet Appointment Are Enhanced

BY JACK BELL

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The senate and President Roosevelt agreed today on separating the huge RFC from the commerce department. The assumption was plain that Henry Wallace can have what's left of the cabinet post.

The confusion centering around nomination of Wallace for the dual job held by Jesse Jones was rapidly cleared in this series of quick steps:

1—The senate forestalled by a vote of 43-41 efforts to bring up Wallace's nomination immediately.

2—The dollar bill divorcing the multi-billion George lending agencies from the commerce department was passed, 74 to 12, and sent to the house.

3—Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky then read a message, coming indirectly from the president, saying he would sign the George proposal.

This message promptly enhanced Wallace's chances of being confirmed as secretary of commerce—a post in which he would supervise the census, the weather bureau, the civil and geodetic survey, the civil aeronautics administration and statistical bureau.

Railroad Centers Supplying German East Front Bombed

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—More than 1,000 RAF bombers poured down tons of explosives tonight on German railway centers supplying the crumbling eastern front and blasted refugee-jammed Berlin. The night raids by the British heavies followed daylight attacks by American and British bombers on Rhine supply points for the western front.

Ludwigshafen also was hit during the day by four waves of more than 700 U. S. Flying Fortresses, which also blasted other marshalling yards at Mannheim and rail and highway bridges at Wesel. American losses were one bomber and one fighter.

LIGHTS GO DIM FOR 'BROWNOUT'

Most Establishments In Escanaba Comply With Order

Escanaba's Ludington street last night was the darkest since practice blackouts were held early in the war as retail establishments eliminated window display and outdoor advertising lighting in compliance with a WPB order to reduce electric consumption and save coal.

Generally compliance was regarded as "good," although an occasional sign was showing within windows. These, however, were turned off because of a misunderstanding of the regulations.

R. R. Valier, Green Bay, district manager of WPB, has asked that Escanaba cooperate as follows in obtaining complete compliance with the order:

1—All inquiries concerning the order should be referred to the local electric utility for interpretation.

2—All city police will be instructed to survey their beats for any violation. The violations will be reported to the chief of police, and a special officer will be assigned to obtain compliance.

3—All calls received by the electric utility department indicating violations of the order will be referred to the chief of police, who will contact the owner and attempt to obtain compliance.

4—If compliance cannot be obtained by the police officer, the case will be referred to the electric utility and another attempt made to obtain compliance.

5—If these measures should fail, the offender will be reported to the district WPB office, which will contact the offender. Should the violation continue WPB will take action to see that electric service is discontinued.

Alcohol is essential in chemical warfare, anti-freeze for tanks and airplanes, and in medical supplies, such as ether, chloroform, antiseptics and for sterilization and antiseptic purposes.

Insurance Agents Hold Annual Meet, Re-elect Officers

B. W. Hall was re-elected president of the Escanaba Insurance Agents association at the annual meeting held yesterday. O. V. Thatcher was again named vice president, and A. J. Goulais, secretary-treasurer.

Various problems of the insurance business were discussed at the meeting.

Fire losses in the United States during 1944 amounted to $423,538,000, the highest in this country since 1932, according to estimates of the National Board of Underwriters. The 1944 losses were 11 per cent higher than those for 1943 and were the highest for any year since the total of $442,143,000 recorded 12 years ago. The estimates are based upon incurred losses reported by companies which are members of the board.

The 1944 figures show losses of $48,694,000 in December, which were two per cent higher than losses of $47,716,000 reported in December, 1943, and 44 per cent above losses of $33,847,000 in November, 1944. The December total was the highest for any month since March, 1932, when the figure was $49,189,000. The five-year period 1940 through 1944 shows a 20 per cent increase over the previous five-year period 1935 through 1939.

That Day's Here

Despite the fact that experience proves this time of year to be mid-winter, the old superstition lives, most everyone can tell you what day it is, and that is just what one Escanaba man did, a few seasons back.

"Dear," inquired his wife, "Do you know what day this is?" "Yes, it is Ground-Hog Day," he answered and thereby earned a place in the doghouse. (February 2 is their wedding anniversary date.)

Tradition says that the ground-hog comes out of his burrow on the second day of February, looks about him, and if he sees his shadow, decides that spring is still six weeks off. He thereupon crawls back into bed to finish his winter's nap. Though the tradition has no basis in fact, it persists,

Marmota monax, himself and, unlike most similar tales of the animals of the wild, the details of the story suggest some of the habits of this little animal. He hibernates in winter and he lives in a burrow.

Better known as the woodchuck in this area, he is also burdened with another name, Marmota monax, by the scientists, which distinguishes him from other members of the ground squirrel.

He is about the size of the ordinary house cat, fifteen to eighteen inches in length, but more thick-set. His long coarse fur, which is blackish or grayish above and chestnut-red below, is practically valueless as fur. His flesh is not particularly well flavored so he is not sought after by the hunter on that account. He lives on the edges of sparsely wooded areas and digs a rather elaborate burrow.

Once he has finished with it, his burrow often becomes a haven for the cottontail rabbit, so the rabbit hunter considers him a friend. However, his fondness for early garden vegetables earns him the enmity of the gardener.

Henry E. Hathaway, who presides at the local office of the U. S. Weather Bureau, has already received calls urging that he make a special check of the sunshine recorder to see that it is clean and in perfect working order, that Ground-Hog Day fans may know if the little fellow cast a shadow. The check will be made, but Mr. Hathaway says that expecting the ground-hog to come out into the sun looking for a shadow is against nature and ignores the nature of the beast. He declares that if our friend, Marmota, risks blizzards to do any forecasting, it will be with the moon as his aid. He intimates that a child of nature would not risk being blinded by a bright winter sun.

Duck Stamps

Michigan's 83,554 sportsmen who bought federal duck stamps last season earned third place rating among the states. In all, nearly 1,170,000 stamps were sold. Minnesota is in first place, with sales of 95,446 stamps; California second, with 92,725. Texas and Illinois are fourth and fifth.

Issued first in August, 1934, the stamps cost a dollar each and must be purchased by persons over age 16 who hunt migratory waterfowl. Ninety per cent of the money realized from sales of stamps is used for purchase and maintenance of waterfowl refuges throughout the country, the remaining 10 per cent for administrative costs.

Swelling the list of purchasers are the country's stamp collectors, for the little engraved adhesives, like postage and revenue stamps have a place in most collections of United States stamps.

Not All Bad

On these frosty days when the thermometer is all too prone to confine its movements in the vicinity of the zero mark we are too inclined to dislike winter because of the inconvenience of its cold and snow and never pause to enjoy its beauty. Snow hides many dark and disagreeable things and spreads a mantle of mystery over commonplace things. We forget that the snow is invaluable to our farms and forests both as a protection from the frosts and as a provider of moisture to the soil.

We could well imitate the curiosity of children, like that of the four-year-old who, though practically covered with snow stooped to scoop a handful and came up with a handful and holding it out, asked "Daddy, why is snow white?"

Well, snowflakes are really transparent crystals and as they most generally reflect the white light of the sun or the moon the snow appears white in color. Snow will appear in various colors when lighted by neon signs, or appear dark when discolored by smoke or soot. That explanation didn't register, but mention that the snow was like soap suds and bubbles sent the red-cheeked youngster tumbling into the house in search of the soap bubble pipe. But that question about snow will come up again and perhaps a fumbling father and an older child will get together on an answer.

Let's Be Practical

AT LEAST a part of the reason for the recent hurried demand for the reopening and operation, at full capacity, of all munitions and arms plants in this country, may be found in the decision of Army officials to move our military forces from Europe, when Germany is finally defeated, direct to the Pacific war theater, leaving the bulk of their equipment behind.

Upon the arrival of these forces in the Pacific area, they will be rearmed with weapons and equipment, that are now being produced in the war plants of this country. It is announced that this move has been decided upon by high military authorities, as a means of hastening the day when Japan, too, may be crushed. It is the belief of military authorities that it would take too long to move both men and their fighting equipment from Europe to the Pacific and that valuable time can be saved by abandoning the bulk of equipment now being used against Germany and completely re-arming our military forces with new weapons, for the final assault upon Japan.

The time that will be saved by this strategy, it has been decided, will far outweigh the cost that will be involved. No patriotic citizen can object to this plan, for every day that can be saved in bringing about enforced peace in the Pacific, as well as in Europe, will save American lives. But it will be hoped that some thought is being given to the eventual recovery of the billions of dollars worth of fighting equipment now being used in the European war theater and its reconversion into peace-time goods for the use of families in this nation.

It will be hoped that the waste of the first World War, when millions of dollars worth of military equipment was left to rot in France, will not be repeated. The excuse for the criminal waste of that day was that this nation did not have sufficient boats to make the salvage of our war equipment worth while. That excuse cannot be offered after the close of the present war, for no nation in all the world will have a greater ocean going fleet than will the United States of America when world peace finally comes.

We can afford to waste more money, in order to save lives, but let's be practical about even our waste, before the books are closed.

Asks Ore Research

THE Norway-Vulcan Chamber of Commerce recently adopted a resolution, asking the geology division of the Michigan conservation department to carry on more extensive exploratory work in an effort to discover new ore bodies in Dickinson county. The resolution also points to the need for extensive study of the possibilities for utilizing the low grade ores of the Upper Peninsula.

The last session of the legislature appropriated $25,000 for a wood utilization research program, and the Norway Chamber of Commerce apparently feels that the state should give the same consideration to the mining industry.

According to the text of the resolution, the Penn mines in the Norway-Vulcan area of Dickinson county will be closed this year unless new ore reserves are found. It will mean that the 7,000 people in this area will lose their chief means of support. The Penn mines have been operating for about three-quarters of a century. During the past 15 years, the Loretto, Chapin, Pewabic and other mines in Dickinson have closed because of the exhaustion of the ore supply.

Plan Tourist Survey

MICHIGAN State College and the tourist and resort advisory committee of the state planning commission have proposed an extensive survey of the state's recreational industry in preparation for the anticipated postwar boom. Launching of the project is dependent upon approval of an appropriation request submitted to the legislature.

The plan calls for an exhaustive study of the tourist and resort facilities in the state with a view toward gathering information that can be used to advise resort operators in the future years. Michigan State College has done much work along this line in the past and apparently is desirous of broadening its activities. Incidentally, the college's course in hotel management is considered one of the best in the country.

The tourist and resort industry is rated as a $400,000,000 a year enterprise, and its benefits are spread throughout the state. After the war, it should offer opportunities to returning veterans who want to establish themselves in business. The college can be of great help in showing them the pitfalls that must be avoided to operate their resorts successfully.

Newspapers Help

WHILE we are somewhat affected by the cold statistics of our battle casualties it is only when we hear and read the tragic news concerning young men from our own community do we realize the full meaning of war. Unfortunately, there has been an increased amount of bad news in recent weeks.

Recording these casualties and the circumstances surrounding them is the painful duty of the newspapers, but one which is performed with the knowledge that it can be of genuine service to sorrowing and anxious relatives. News of a casualty seems to spread quickly by word of mouth among neighbors and friends. Anxious to learn details, they often deluge the stricken family with telephone calls, which tends to increase the distress that follows the shock of bad news.

Families will ease the strain that inevitably follows receipt of the regretful message from the war or navy department if they will see that the newspapers are notified promptly.

Other Editorial Comments

AN AFFIRMATIVE PROPOSITION (Muskegon Chronicle)

Arthur Vandenberg's speech pointed a course of unity not only within the ranks of his own party but for the senate as a whole. His proposals are practical and specific to a daring degree for a member of the "opposition." Senator Vandenberg argued that failure of the United States to enter unequivocally into an agreement with the leading powers pledged to the permanent demilitarization of Germany and Japan was causing Britain and the Soviet Union to take the unilateral and bilateral steps which cause us so much concern. He argued that for the United States to enter into such an agreement, and to give the President prompt authorization of force to carry out the treaty, would be to remove the fear of axis militarism and the doubt of eventual American cooperation.

When winter's slush goes out that of spring poetry will come in.

We've seen the advance showing of 1945 bathing suits. There really is a shortage in some materials.

Well, little groundhog, tomorrow is your own day, and by tradition, you usually come up to see what the weather is going to be like for the next six weeks. According to my information, which I don't mind sharing, it will be "cloudy, with prevailing shortages . . . increasing gales and velocity in the region of congress."

But personally, if I were you, I'd just stay in my little cellar and forget about the weather. Goodness, anyone with a roof over his head and a fur coat is sitting pretty these days. I know any number of apartment hunters just waiting for you to leave your burrow so they can rush in and take it. Then, too, someone who is low on red points may remember that a groundhog is, after all, a member of the sausage family, and then, where will you be?

Yes, little fellow stay down in your burrow until the day a certain member of the rodent family wearing a Swastika and a little black mustache comes down and tries to hide. It will be all right to come up then, especially as I know you won't enjoy his company.

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH Q. Is there something wrong with the expression, "I didn't want to do it"? My English class really wants to know.

A. Use to, in the meaning of "accustomed at some time in the past," is not sanctioned. The only form recommended is "used to." Your sentence, then, would have to be recast: I used not to do it. But it is awkward at best in the negative. In the positive, however, it is quite proper: I used to live in New York; we used to go to the same school; she used always to spend her vacations with us.

Q. Whenever I read that, "The meeting was in charge of Mrs. John Doe," I suffer a mild nervous breakdown! The meaning is, of course, that Mrs. Doe had charge of the meeting. Can't you do something?

A. Strictly speaking Mrs. Doe is in charge of, or has charge of the meeting. Also, the meeting is in the charge of Mrs. Doe; or the meeting is in Mrs. Doe's charge. But the form "the meeting is in charge of Mrs. Doe" has become so firmly established in the American vocabulary that I doubt whether a B-29 blockbuster would even budge it.

It is thus that idioms are born, and, as it often happens, today's grammatical error is tomorrow's good usage. English is like that.

"Colby, you're wrong," says J. W. of Paso Robles. "You recently spoke of 'the incredulous theory . . . ' Tch, tch, tch. Really, it's incredible!"

London—King Peter of Yugoslavia has become the problem child for the Balkans, and the Big Three at their meeting are going to have to consider what to do about him.

Peter has recently asserted his royal prerogatives in a way to drive his British hosts to distraction. The comedy of intrigue has been played out, with Peter in the role of the wayward monarch firing his ministers and refusing advice from one and all.

At one point Peter fired even his court Chamberlain, so that when the British foreign office tried to get in touch with him, they could find only a footman to talk to. This occurred at a time when the 21-year-old King had high-handedly dismissed Doctor Subasitch, his Prime Minister.

—TITO WIELDS POWER— This was done in a letter phrased in harsh terms. What made it so embarrassing was that it came just as an agreement was being worked out between the Yugoslav government-in-exile in London and the regime of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia through a British intermediary. Some such agreement is essential if the London Yugoslavs are to participate in a restored government.

Tito and his partisans, with the backing of Soviet Russia, has of course liberated a large part of his native land. He is in a position of great power as the Soviet armies sweep victoriously across eastern Europe.

While the Peter-Subasitch crisis was going on, with the King at one moment dismissing his Prime Minister and the next moment receiving him again, the British foreign office became worried about the reaction of Tito to all this. A wire was sent to the British diplomatic mission in Yugoslavia asking them to determine how upset Tito was by the quarrel.

The reply came back that Tito could not be more calm. After all, he is sitting with most of the high cards in his hand and there was no reason why he should be upset because in London the rival claimants for authority seemed to be deliberately frittering away any chances they might have of sharing power.

Having spent nearly four years in London with court functionaries around him and the British government providing money for his pleasant country estate, Peter apparently got the idea he was a monarch with absolute powers. It is a situation with both tragedy and comedy as this charming, attractive young man plays at being King in face of the grim realities of the present-day world.

If Tito was not disturbed, the British certainly were. They saw perfectly well that all chances of a moderate government with representation of Liberals and Socialists were being jeopardized by Peter's behavior.

—POLISH COMEDY REENACTED— For this reason, plans were made to send Subasitch and his cabinet back to Yugoslavia to implement an agreement with Tito regardless of the King's actions. Then followed a period of backing and filling in which on one day the King received Subasitch three times. The prospect opened up that the King would be left in London with no government at all. At this point Peter yielded and consented to a regency council pending a popular decision on his return.

In some respects this followed the same course as the Polish tragedy-comedy. If the London Poles had been willing to accept the Curzon line a year and a half ago, a compromise with Moscow could have been reached. That, at least, is the belief of informed sources here. What happened was that they yielded always too late, so that their belated retreat gained them nothing.

So far as Poland is concerned, the British are still pinning their hopes on former Prime Minister Mikoajczyk, who declined to take part in the new government after his return from Moscow, where he had failed in his effort to bring the Soviets and the London Poles together in some sort of compromise with the Lublin Committee of Liberation. The British here take what is called a "dim view" of the Lublin committee, feeling it is far from representative of the Polish people.

These are problems right on London's doorstep. They have to be dealt with from day to day. That is one of the important reasons why the Churchill government is so anxious to have consultative machinery set up, so that the views of the three powers can be known without such long delays and uncertainties.

What the British are holding to as basic in each situation is the holding of free elections that will give the people in each country an opportunity to express their choice without fear. That is still the hope for Poland.

That is also the objective in view for Greece, if somehow the present truce can be maintained by the regency and real peace restored to the country. Incidentally, it is interesting to know that throughout the entire Greek crisis not one word of expression came from the Soviets as to how they felt about it.

Free elections are likewise the ultimate hope for Yugoslavia. The people may have a chance to vote on whether they want to keep their charming, wayward King.

"Incredulous" was a slip of the pen, or merely a throw-back to days when "incredulous" was proper in the meaning of "incredible." However, that usage, since the dictionaries, has been obsolete since 1800—hey, what am I saying?

Loony Logic of the week was spotted by Mrs. W. H. C. in a Wisconsin daily: "The heavily laden truck crushed the car in which two employees were riding like a match box."

That Silly Man's Here Again!

Good Morning! INTO THE PAST The Lyons Den

By The Bugler By Leonard Lyons

PACIFIC DIVING — Warrant Officer T. D. "Dale" Vinette who is now directing diving operations with the Seabees in the Pacific started his underwater career in the Escanaba yacht basin. Dale is about 30 years old and has been with the Navy Seabees for two years.

Prior to entering the Navy he was an amateur diver whose interest in his work brought him several professional jobs, and fitted him to receive a chief petty officer's rating when the Navy called him into service. At the Norfolk Navy Yard he had charge of the rigging loft prior to going overseas.

An enthusiastic yachtsman without a boat, Dale sailed with practically every member of the Escanaba Yacht Club, of which he was a member. Starting his diving career with a helmet and a sense of adventure in poking around on the bottom of the yacht basin, Dale progressed to ownership of a diving suit and work on the marine railway at the basin when the city added that improvement several years ago.

USES JAP BOAT — John J. Mitchell of Escanaba, who has a good habit of writing letters to his friends in service, has an interesting reply from Dale. On January 20 Dale wrote in part: "I was glad to hear of all the new boats up there. Maybe in the next few years I may be able to pick myself a forty-footer to add to the fleet."

"Right now I'll have to settle for my fifty-foot Jap sampan and a twenty-ton derrick scow, plus one LCVP I use as a work boat and runabout. "I'm inclosing a couple views of my diving boat, the Jap sampan I salvaged shortly after we arrived here.

"She's very unorthodox as boats go but fine and dandy for our use. "YOU WILL NOTICE the double bow the Japs use to give shoal draft forward and stability when she is beached. This is the most popular type landing craft they have. It has plenty of beam and only draws two feet of water.

"She is made of very light steel and has a four-cylinder gas-diesel engine, which looks similar to an old Studebaker. Some of these craft have twin screws and are powered with diesels much like the Buick master six engines. The screws (propellers) are the cork-screw type and seem to work very well. My boat has the conventional 'type screw, though.

"THE DERRICK SCOW I have is equipped for diving and wrecking, with compressors, pumps, derrick, hoisting gear, surface and underwater welding and cutting gear. It is self-propelled with an outboard motor, something the war has brought out. We can make about six knots top speed.

HAD THE BENDS—I just got out of sick bay after a stretch on my back with a touch of the bends. Too much hurrying up to get back to the bottom. I'm up and around now but won't be going back to work for a few days yet.

"SINCE WE'VE ARRIVED here we have bounced some thirty vessels off the bottom besides all the repair work and underwater construction. We also had a lot of cargo recovery to do.

"Another group of this same unit raised some thirty vessels at Saipan. They are straggling back here now a few at a time. They are just about done up there.

"The next operation coming up is going to take a lot of divers from here. I thought I'd be going along but don't think I'll be back in good enough condition before they pull out (Editor's note: .

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

Washington—Very little appeared in the papers about it, but highly important policies regarding future relations with Japan were discussed at the recent institute of Pacific relations at Hot Springs, Va.

Most important of all was a proposal by the British to retain Emperor Hirohito and the Japanese ruling class in the post-war setup of Japan.

Sir Paul Butler, leading adviser to the British foreign office, led the appeal for Hirohito.

Behind closed doors at the Swank Homestead Hotel, Butler made his blunt pronouncement:

"No alternative to a monarchical system, under the present Emperor or some other member of his family, is likely to provide the focus of stability which will be essential if the state is not to dissolve into chaos in the impending crisis."

Sir Paul's tender concern for the Japanese monarch brought a tart reply from Dr. Huh Shih, former Chinese Ambassador to the U. S. A. who suggested that Hirohito be exiled to London "along with the other discredited monarchs."

Other United Nations delegates also were vigorously opposed to the British policy of appeasing the Emperor. Most significant of all was the position of the British dominions—Canada, Australia and New Zealand—which split with the delegation from the British Isles itself. The Canadians demanded a complete housecleaning in Japan and the dominion delegates from "down under" agreed with them.

NOTE—U. S. delegates at the Pacific conference included Admiral Thomas Hart, former commander of the Asiatic fleet; John Carter Vincent, chief of the state department's Chinese division; and Congresswoman Frances Bolton of Cleveland. At the end of the hush-hush meeting, Mrs. Bolton remarked: "This is one conference Drew Pearson won't find out about."

—SON OF LORD HALIFAX—

Lt. Richard Wood, son of British Ambassador Lord Halifax, lost both his legs in North Africa. A German dive bomber attacked a motorized British column, and planted a bomb square in the lap of Lieutenant Wood. Fortunately the bomb was a dud, but it crushed his legs, and they were immediately amputated well above the knee.

Wood has been in Washington for some weeks, with his father and mother, at the British embassy. Incidentally, his brother Peter was killed in action, and the third Halifax son, Major Charles Wood, heir to the title of Halifax, is a member of Parliament, now serving on active duty with the British army.

The other day—an icy day in Washington—young Wood was being taken to the convalescent wing of Walter Reed hospital, just outside of Washington—not for treatment, but to talk to convalescent veterans. He has artificial limbs, and has mastered the difficult business of walking.

But his car got stuck on an icy hill leading to the hospital. Lieutenant Wood wanted to get to the hospital to keep his engagement with the American soldiers. So he climbed out of the car, and hobbled up the icy hill with the help of his cane. He reached the hospital and gave his talk to the soldiers.

—VETERANS' HOSPITAL—

Although the army boasts of its Walter Reed General Hospital in Washington as the finest in the country, hundreds of servicemen come out severely critical, except of the actual surgery performed.

Head of Walter Reed is 64-year old Major General Shelly U. Marietta, General Pershing's close friend and personal physician. General Marietta is a renowned doctor, but not so strong an administrator, with the result that the hospital morale is extremely low, especially among enlisted men.

One failing is that the army's vaunted rehabilitation program has never been properly installed at Walter Reed. The only serious attempt at rehabilitating veterans is for men who are to remain in the service. Those scheduled to get discharges are practically ignored.

One result is that war attendants are doing a thriving business selling liquor from five to fifteen dollars a quart. Visitors have often noted that the innocent-looking pitchers alongside hospital cots contain liquid much stronger than coca cola, while nurses have been known to go through a ward distributing ice cubes.

Recently the men in ward 32, most of them in traction splints which require absolute quiet, drank so much and became so noisy that an MP appeared to restore order and was beaten up by the patients. Several patients were set back several weeks in their recovery as a result of leaving their cots to jump on the MP.

At the Forest Glen convalescent home, under Walter Reed administration, the situation is perhaps worse. Most of the G. I.'s here are able to get out and visit Washington. Classes in mathematics, language and other academic subjects are offered by volunteer teachers, but no attempt is made to give the men psychological tests to aid them in choosing a post-war trade or profession.

The army morale service is permitted to work at Forest Glen only at the invitation of the medical corps. Last summer a group of psychologists from the morale service prepared an analysis of the hospital's needs and recommended a reorganization. This group was ordered overseas before its report was completed—and the report never has been finished.

Germany might well pick as a new national anthem "Don't Fence Me In."

TWO MINERS KILLED

Vulcan, Mich.—Two miners were killed Tuesday when they were caught in two falls of iron ore on the third level of the Curry mine, owned by the Penn Mining Co. They were John Bilski, 28, unmarried, and John Zanon, 38, a widower and father of two small boys. Both men lived at Norway, Mich. The accident, termed "unavoidable" by Coroner Carroll Asp, occurred after the two men had completed drilling operations preparatory to blasting. They were working about 2,300 feet down.

PERMITS ARE NEEDED

Sault Ste. Marie—Canadian men between the ages of 18 and 31 will be required to present written permits from the chairman of the Mobilization Board in Toronto before leaving Canada beginning tomorrow.

A recent dispatch from Ottawa made known that provisions would be put into effect at border crossings, designed to tighten up draft regulations and serve to apprehend soldiers who are absent without leave.

HEALTH STAFF AT CONFERENCE

County Group Attends
 U. P. Meeting Today
 At Marquette

The staff of the Delta county health department, school health nurses and others interested in public health work in the county today will attend a meeting of Upper Peninsula health officers at Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette.

Dr. M. A. Elstein, director of the Delta county health department, William H. Hendricks, sanitarian, and the three nurses of the health department staff, Mrs. Dorothy Boyle, Mrs. Alma Christensen and Mrs. Opal Imonen, will represent the county. Also attending will be Miss Gertrude Sheahan, Escanaba public school nurse, Miss Inez Nyberg, Gladstone public school nurse, and Miss Jeanne Huss of Bark River.

The conference was originally scheduled to include a meeting of county school commissioners, but because of a conflicting conference date in Lower Michigan, few of the school commissioners will be present. C. P. Titus, Delta county school commissioner, is attending the downstate meeting.

The program will be presented in five sessions as follows:

10:00-11:00 a. m.—Survey of typical physical environments in schools, to be conducted by Mrs. Ada Watson, county school commissioner, Manistique, and Mrs. Ethel Schuyler, commissioner in Menominee.

11:00-12:00 a. m.—Illustrated discussion on the physical environment of the school by LaRoe Miller, chief of the division of environmental sanitation, state department of health.

1:30-2:45 p. m.—Ways of working with students, boards of education and the community in improving the physical environment of the schools, by Jeanne Huss, Bark River, and members of the health education class of the college.

2:45-3:45—Ways by which school commissioners, health departments and local communities can improve the physical environment of their schools, Ted Rice, director of secondary school study, state department of instruction.

3:45-4:15—Summary and implications for action, E. V. Thiehoff, M. D., director of the bureau of local health service, state department of health.

Paris has a talking clock, which automatically tells the time when rung up. Four million people used the service in one year.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE E-274: Alicia W., aged 23, has an excellent suggestion.

"Several weeks ago you mentioned the need for a Scientific Dating Bureau to help eligible men and women make friends with desirable members of the opposite sex."

"My own experience is proof of the need for such an organization. As soon as I graduated from college, I found myself teaching school in a strange community, far from home."

"I was very lonely. Lack of opportunity for social contacts affected my health to such an extent that I consulted a nerve specialist in New York City."

"The specialist said what I needed was more dates and social life. Where to go? How to obtain dates?"

Scientific Dating Bureau, Inc.

"Fortunately for me, a friend of mine invited me to become a U. S. O. hostess. Of course, I accepted the invitation readily, and my problems have disappeared."

"My purpose in bringing this to your attention is to suggest that after the war is over, the U. S. O. be converted into a social agency such as your Scientific Dating Bureau."

"It could thus continue to serve the social and romantic needs of unmarried adults, just as the department stores serve our merchandise needs."

A Living Memorial

There is much merit in Alicia's suggestion, and I should like to see such a practical approach to a Scientific Dating Bureau, for the latter would eliminate many of the psychiatric complaints in America, as well as help establish happy homes where American-indectrinated children could be reared to help safeguard our future.

Some of you patriotic Americans with wealth could erect a living memorial to your loved ones by endowing a non-profit organization to help them make friendly contacts with suitable members of the opposite sex.

Thousands of letters come to me from men and women, asking for advice about how to meet desirable members of the opposite sex.

Because letters to me must be treated as privileged communications, I am not entitled to give the name of an attractive, suitable male to an attractive, eligible girl, much as I have often wished to do so. Besides, this office hasn't the funds with which to operate such a Scientific Dating Bureau.

Insurance for America

To operate most efficiently, such a bureau should have a central office, plus field agents in the various cities or counties. Applicants would then fill out appropriate questionnaires revealing their age, sex, religious preferences, etc., and include a late medical certificate from a local physician, plus three references and a late photograph.

The field agent would then visit the applicant and double check his references, after which he would send a written report to the central office. The applicant would then be listed under a code number.

Anybody wishing to make friends could then be introduced to several suitable members of the opposite sex. Happy marriages would thus be promoted among millions of excellent men and women who now seem destined to die childless. Will some wealthy patriot thus insure America's future?

Woman's Q&A
Service

Q. How is hard cider made?

A. In order to become hard, cider must ferment the same as wine. When fermentation has been completed, the hard cider must be sealed airtight to prevent it from turning to vinegar. Some farmers let the barrels of fermented cider freeze slightly and drain the hard cider from the bottom.

Q. Do low temperatures kill bedbug eggs?

A. Temperatures maintained below freezing for 10 or 15 days destroys the eggs, and if continued for 15 days to a month will destroy the newly hatched young.

HOPKINS GIVES HIS PEACE PLAN

Asserts Powerful Army, Compulsory Training Are Needed

New York, (AP)—Only a "perpetual army of occupation" would be able to prevent Germany and Japan from rearming eventually, says Harry L. Hopkins in the March American magazine, in urging compulsory military training after the war.

Hopkins has "no doubt that powerful forces in Germany and Japan are preparing even now for their next attempt to conquer us."

"We don't know what new weapons will be developed—before such an attack, attempts will be made to cause us to become careless and complacent. X X X."

"Our country is the one that marauders must want to conquer. What a nation to loot! The final conquest of North America would make a dozen defeats worth while to the pillagers, and if we ever again are so weak that they have a chance to defeat us, world war III will loom on the horizon. Still."

"If this nation works as earnestly for peace as it is working to win the war, I believe we can have peace," Hopkins writes, "but I believe, at the same time, that to do this we must have a powerful military force that will discourage the predatory ambitions of our potential enemies."

Hopkins urges Congress to provide for one year of compulsory military training in peacetime for every 18-year-old boy. He suggests that thorough consideration be given to the measure and that it be "exactly the right kind" of bill.

"Once the plan fails," he warns, "it can never be revived again, until the bombs begin falling upon our cities. And that will be too late."

Black Bart Was Much Feared Bandit In 80's

The driver of the stagecoach cracked his whip over the heads of the three horses. The stagecoach was nearing Shawano, Wis., and the driver was dusty and wet with perspiration. It was a warm day in May. The passengers, a Merominee Indian and Thomas Ainsworth, were tired, too.

The driver, Heyman Rafoth of Shawano, glanced over his shoulder, out of habit, and saw a horseman racing behind him. The rider carried a gun and as he neared the stagecoach, he shouted a warning to halt. Rafoth slowed his horses. "Give me the mail pouch," the masked bandit demanded as he rode alongside.

The driver turned to Ainsworth for advice, and the passenger told him to throw the pouch from the coach. Then the highwayman demanded Rafoth's money and Rafoth gave him $11.

"You're more than this," the bandit said, and Rafoth shook his head, remembering the $45 he carried in his vest pocket. The bandit believed him and turned to Ainsworth, who gave him $9.75. The bandit didn't want the checks the Indian offered.

Loot Was Small
Keeping his gun on Rafoth and the passengers, the bandit slit the mail pouch. In it he found two checks for $15 each. Disgusted, he ordered the stagecoach to drive on but before it started Ainsworth leaned out and shouted that he was sorry he didn't have an even $10 to give the bandit and that some day he hoped he could give him the other 25c.

"Drive on," the angry bandit said, "Shut your mouths and don't turn around."

The highwayman was Wisconsin's Jesse James. His name was Raymond Holmes, or Reimund Holzhey, or Reimund Holzhey as his prison record showed, or any number of aliases. He was about 22 years old, said to have been born in Shawano of German parents. After he had begun his series of holdups throughout the state in 1888 and 1889, he was the terror of the highways, and people referred to him as "Black Bart."

This nickname was a misnomer, however, as the bandit was of light complexion and said to be fairly good looking. He was one of the cleverest woodsmen of the northwest.

The holdup near Shawano was not the bandit's first nor his last. Before starting his career of robbery, he practiced shooting by riding madly around and around a tree shooting at a bull's eye. Sometimes it was said, he would throw hazelnuts into the air and crack them with his revolver shot.

His first known holdup was believed to have occurred between Pulifer and Underhill. He wore a red handkerchief over his face and carried a Winchester. When his command to halt to the driver was not promptly obeyed, he shot one of the horses. Clicking another cartridge into his gun, he drew down on the passengers and demanded their money. But the story goes that there "was no cash in those desperate chances for less than a dollar all told."

Second Try Better
In his second attempt, the bandit got a mail pouch which yielded him $700 besides the $50 he took from a passenger. In his third try he secured a much lighter mail pouch, and a "smaller private purse."

His fourth stage holdup was followed within an hour by a train robbery on the North Western road in which he accomplished the unparalleled feat of stopping a train and going through it.

Mich., on July 13, 1935. On Nov. 30, 1910, the sentence was commuted to expire 40 years from the date of sentence with good time allowance. He was discharged from prison on July 7, 1943.

This was the career of Wisconsin's notorious highway bandit. It is said that he was made librarian at the prison, and that he made numerous attempts to escape. It is said, too, that after one escape he returned with fingers of one hand shot off by an officer.

Of his criminal record, Holzhey said that he couldn't help holding up stagecoaches and trains, nor killing the passengers. He claimed he was suffering from nervous prostration and it relieved his mind and eased his brain to take part in a holdup.

After his release from prison, rumor has it that "Black Bart" had learned his lesson. Some said that he got a job as a guide and patrolman in Michigan's Iron range, and other people said that he lived a law abiding life under a new name.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sensations, with throes sometimes wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

HOLD BANQUETRev. D. L. Carlson Is Chief Speaker At Local Gathering

"Youth's Place In the Community," was the theme enlarged on by Rev. David L. Carlson, of Escanaba, associated with the American Sunday School Union, in his address Wednesday evening at a banquet conducted at the church parlors of the First Baptist church.

Youth's place, Rev. Carlson said, was first in the church and in order to be in that first place, three requisites were essential. These were: "Faith, Consecration and Loyalty."

The banquet, which was attended by about eighty people representing youth groups of various churches in the city, was in recognition of "Youth Week" which is being stressed this week by various denominations throughout the country.

Pep singing helped liven the sociability at the banquet and following the banquet and preceding Rev. Carlson's talk, there was a program of musical selections. Miss Eileen Cummings, presided as toastmaster. Rev. William Harvey asked the blessing.

The program follows:
Piano accompaniment solo, Mrs. William Harrington.

Duet, by the Misses Grace and Ruth Martinson.

Piano solo, Jacquelin Thorrell.

The Army has been using up and wearing out its equipment at an unprecedented rate against the enemy.

Q. When a soldier has been reported missing in action, why does the Government wait three months and then write again? Is it to say they are given up as lost?

If no definite proof is received of his death, he continues on the records as missing for a period of a year. If at the end of that time, upon review of the case by the Secretary of War, there is still insufficient evidence upon which to base a determination of death, the soldier is still considered missing.

Munising News

Munising In Grip Of Annual Blizzard

Munising—The city of Munising is again in the grip of its annual January end-of-the-month blizzard. The blizzard, accompanied by a heavy snowfall and high wind, always seems to hit this neck of the woods at about the last three days of January. So regular is this wintry blast that residents just seem to look forward to wallowing in huge drifts, peering over the tops of the snow banks that line the streets, some of them as high as eight feet, and they also look forward to the "wonderful" exercise of shoveling out their paths and a place for the coal trucks to get into with their precious cargo.

Work crews of the city public works are the ones who have really got a battle on their hands trying to keep all the streets and alleys open, sometimes working day and night at this difficult task. With only a small crew of workmen and many of them oldtimers under the supervision of George Flattley they have really done a good job this winter in keeping traffic going. Some residents who have been complaining that their streets are not plowed out slick and clean as soon as a little snow falls are reminded that all essential places are plowed out first, such as the schools, hospitals, business district, main streets and all main roads in the city limits that the school buses travel on; also the alleys have to be kept open in case of fire.

There has been only one serious accident reported so far in the three-day "blitz" and that accident happened on the stretch of road between the pumping station and the dumping grounds that has been dubbed the "county's headache." A coupe owned by Spear's of Marquette and driven by an unidentified man crashed into a truck loaded with pulpwood and driven by Frank Burch in front of the pumping station Wednesday afternoon. The coupe was badly damaged but the driver was not injured, and the truck loaded with vital pulpwood was damaged enough to necessitate being towed in by a wrecker.

The only one in town who seems to get any place at all is Glenn Cargill, who has a team of Alaskan huskies and was observed Wednesday afternoon carrying on a little business down the main street.

On Monday morning between six in the morning and until noon a snowfall of over ten inches was recorded. Lumberjacks have reported that there is over five feet of snow in the woods which also must remind residents that their next year's buck is putting in a hard winter. So far this winter timber jobbers have had very good logging weather with much freezing temperature. This is a boon to pulpwood jobbers who almost have to get their pulpwood out of the swamps in the winter.

In closing this theme on the annual January blizzard, citizens are reminded that there is another storm coming on January 23, 1946.

While on active duty he contracted meningitis from which he had a speedy recovery and was then transferred to yeoman duty in San Francisco. Previous to entering service he was employed by the Bouth Brothers for a number of years, and graduated from Mather high school with the class of 1939.
